A children's park in Pammal continues to be abandoned

T.S. ATUL SWAMINATHAN

A children's park at Poonga Street, Panchayat Colony in Pammal has been out of bounds for the public for years. It lies abandoned now.

The indifferent maintenance of the once-green space is evident from the outside. The railing and the gate are rusted. The play equipment including the see-saw, slide, swing, merry-go-round and the benches are broken, rusted and missing.

As nobody is maintaining the park, the section along Poonga Street is strewn with trash and construction debris.

S. Arunachalam, a resident and a temple priest, says: "For a decade, the park has been in a state of neglect."

He says once the park is revived, a small walking path can also made and it can be lined with benches.

The space outside the park, along Thiruneermalai Main Road, is unhygienic and overrun with garbage. Jayanthi J. Jeyachandran, a resident of Panchayat Colony and a retired school teacher, says the area outside the park along Thiruneermalai Main Road is a health hazard.

Residents of New Colony seek better roads

Walk along New Colony and Mummoorthi Nagar in Chromepet and many of the streets look like kutcha roads. Some of them have not been laid for more than four years.

M. Sadasivam, a resident of The New Colony, says, "Pedestrians can fall when walking through the stones and uneven surfaces."

R. Vijaya Ramadoss, a resident of Mummoorthi Nagar, says, "Mummoorthi Nagar First and Second Street were laid, why not our roads? The stretches facilitates connectivity to GST Road, Chrompet railway station and MTC halting points and witnesses good traffic."

'Increase frequency of 500A, M18G'

There is a need to increase the frequency of route numbers 500A (Hasthinapuram - Chengalpeta) and M18G (Hasthinapuram - Guduvancherry).

Commuters spend time waiting for the buses.

The other option for commuters is to board buses from Tambaram Sanatorium and Tambaram (West).

Also, the frequency of services via Chromepet, towards Broadway and Pozhichalur, should be increased, particularly during rush hour.

'Maintain the subway at Sanatorium'

Water seepage in the underpass at Tambaram Sanatorium recently caused a lot of inconvenience to pedestrians. On February 5, after many complaints, water was pumped out using motors.

This is a recurrent problem and we need a long-term solution. Repair work should be carried out and the subway maintained even after the foot overbridge connecting Station Border Road, platforms at Tambaram Sanatorium railway station and Tambaram Sanatorium, is thrown open to the public.

Other issues affecting commuters include the lack of drinking water facilities and toilets at the end of platforms 1 and 2 are locked.

The newly-created concrete seating facility should be tiled. Pipe connections and taps should be provided in the drinking water facility.

Residents of SSM Nagar seek better sewage management

SSM Nagar Flat Owners Association has sought clarity about the proposed move by the builder (who continues to be in charge of the maintenance of the township in Mapeadu) to utilise the excess treated STP water for flushing and gardening.

The request comes in the wake of sewage flooding open areas in the township.

In a written communication by its secretary K. Saravanan, the Association has sought assurance from the builder the STP water would be treated as per TNPCB norms and the treated water would meet the purity levels prescribed, before it is utilised for any purpose.

A wish list for the new study centre in Chromepet

At the study centre.

T.S. ATUL SWAMINATHAN

On January 5 through video conference, Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M. K. Stalin inaugurated a study centre on the premises of Parali Su. Nellaiappar Municipality Primary School Bharathipuram in Chromepet. This has been a long pending request of residents, especially the Senior Citizens Forum of Chromepet.

But the facility looks incomplete without newspapers, magazines and other amenities. Visitors want the knowledge centre to be used by as many people as possible.

Currently, no photocopying facility exists here, says a civil services aspirant.

Having this facility could help civil services aspirants preparing for the Union Public Service Commission and Staff Selection Commission. There are no information boards announcing the timings of the centre.

R. Nitish, a Class XII student from a school affiliated to CBSE Board, says: "National Council of Educational Research and Training books should also be added to the collection of books at the centre."

Greater variety of books would increase the patronage of this space. Though there are desktop computers, there is no internet connection.

The study centre functions from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. all days of the week except Friday.

The centre should be named after Parali Su. Nellaiappar, a freedom fighter, and his bust should be installed, says S. Meenakshi Sundaram, a social activist and resident of Chromepet.

Residents want unauthorised parking, wrong-way driving checked at Medavakkam junction

Medavakkam junction on February 1. PHOTOS: VELANKANNI RAJ B

L. KANTHIMATHI

On account of Metro Rail-work, the junction of Mambakkam Main Road and Tambaram Velachery Main Road in Medavakkam has long ceased to be an easy junction to navigate.

Residents understand they have to live with the chaotic traffic for some more time. At the same time, they believe simple measures wait to be taken to ease the congestion. One of them is unauthorised parking around the junction.

J. Vidhyasagar, a resident who frequents the junction, notes: "The traffic police should deal with unauthorised parking around the junction with an iron hand. There is sprawling space under the flyover remaining unused; parking lots can be created there."

J. Sankar, another regular at the junction, says: "Wrong-way driving is rampant at this junction, particularly during school hours. The traffic police should bring violators to book."

A low turnout of migratory ducks at Pallikaranai this year?

PHOTOS: PRINCE FREDERICK

BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Wintering migratory birds are refugees, not vacationers. They are fleeing inclement weather conditions – food scarcity a subset of it – in their breeding grounds. In their wintering grounds, they are on the bread line.

They are at the mercy of conditions prevailing at the “refugee camp”. The best refugee camps are those that make residents feel less of a refugee and more at home.

Where do the Pallikaranai Marsh and the Perumbakkam wetland – which in real terms are a composite whole – stand as a refugee camp?

As far as the Marsh goes, five migratory ducks – northern pintail, northern shoveler, garganey, common teal and Eurasian wigeon – make up a major constituent.

K.V.R.K Thirunaranan of The Nature Trust, a voluntary organisation that monitors the Marsh for its bird life with the support of Conservation Authority of Pallikaranai Marshlands (CAPML), says: “These five migratory ducks are barometric species giving a picture of the Marsh’s health. We have been monitoring bird life at the Marsh over the last 13 years along with CAPML, conducting a count every month. In the January 2024 count, we found there were around 2500 migratory ducks, which is a steep drop for this time of the year.

Even last year, around this time, the count of migratory birds was low. Earlier, during many a migratory season, the count of ducks around this time had cleared the 6000 mark comfortably.

The stressor now at the Marsh for birds has largely to do with unseasonal rains (this year, it was the January 7-8 rains). As far as Perumbakkam wetland (a component of Pallikaranai Marsh) goes, debris ending up in the wetland area on account of the development works is adding considerably to the stress. That has to be checked.”

Gatecrashing a migration party

With water levels rapidly declining at the Perumbakkam wetland, bovine invasion is a regular sight. The presence of bovines evokes the unsavoury situation of a guest whose checkout time is distant but who finds rude claims to the room being made by the guest next in line for occupation. The migratory birds have two more months to spend at the wetland and ideally, should have the “room” all to themselves. But the bovines are already there, sprawled on the sofa. Besides motorists, there are others stray cattle are unfriendly to, and these migratory birds would only nod in agreement. The image was taken on February 8, 2024. PHOTO: PRINCE FREDERICK

Chasing the TNPSC dream

A free coaching centre in Parrys has been a source of hope for aspirants

Classes at the centre

work,” says Nivas, referring to the recognitions he received.

Knowledge centre

Students and alumni say the space is a knowledge centre. There are successful alumni taking classes talking about the mistakes they have made. “Group discussion is the highlight and this being a closed space everyone opens up,” says Janani, adding that she has been learning a lot in the process.

Vasudevan says the centre has more than 1000 alumni who are placed in jobs in various government sectors. One of them is Rosy A. who has received the selection letter for the post of Assistant Statistical Investigator in Tamil Nadu General Subordinate Service.

But it is not a cake walk. “It takes an average of two to three years to clear Group I/IV examination,” says Janani. “It’s a lot of hardwork.”

LIFFY THOMAS

On February 11, at a building in Armenian Street, All India Insurance Employees Union will welcome a new batch of candidates aspiring to find employment through the Tamil Nadu Public Service Commission examination. This building also houses the office of CPI (M) and Tamil Nadu Untouchability Eradication Front.

As in director Vidhu Vinod Chopra’s 12th Fail, one can find heartwarming stories of grit, perseverance and resilience at Dr Ambedkar Education and Employment Centre, which has been offering free coaching for over a decade.

Janani G, a Union Public Service Commission aspirant and a tutor at this centre, is among those who will be giving an introduction to TNPSC for the new batch.

An engineering graduate, Janani could not afford the fee charged by private IAS academies. She discontinued after a year of coaching to turn tutor-volunteer at this centre.

“You must not accept defeat easily whatever be the situation around you, and I will be sharing my story at the meeting,” says Janani, who takes classes in current affairs and polity. She has made three attempts in civil service, has a part-time job and is determined to crack a central government job from the general category.

All India Insurance Employees Union began by offering free coaching in 2009 in Coimbatore for candidates seeking to build a career in Banking, Insurance and the Railway. In 2012, they expanded to Chennai and other districts adding TNPSC coaching as well.

With just 900 sq. ft., the centre is a modest facility. It comes with a wide collection of books, a projector and a photocopy machine. It has been sustained over the years by the goodwill of many well-wishers who help in cash or kind. Classes are offered only during weekends from 9.30 a.m. till 5 p.m.

“In the initial years we brought faculty from coaching centres but we could not afford to pay them, so now whoever helps here is a volunteer not expecting any money,” says N. Vasudevan, LIC employee who is Chennai coordinator for the centre.

They currently have more than 15 UPSC aspirants who serve as faculty besides retired bankers and LIC Class I officers.

A majority of the candidates coming here are from the outskirts of the city. “Some have so much perseverance that it does not matter if they do not get accommodation. Many cannot afford a good meal. They refresh at the washrooms in the centre and eat from Amma canteens,” says Vasudevan.

Nivas M., working as Revenue Inspector, has been associated with the centre for more than four years. He has attended the weekend classes for internal promotions.

“One thing that I learnt interacting with people here is the importance of upholding integrity at

A space, books and some help

Thanks to a government grant, The People’s Educational Trust/Dr. Ambedkar Academy is able to give free accommodation besides coaching for 70 candidates since September 2023.

The Academy offers coaching for students from Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribe communities, who are appearing for the Tamil Nadu Public Service Commission (TNPSC) Group II main examination.

“Many of the students are economically disadvantaged and come to the city to chase their dream of finding a government job,” says G. Chellappan, managing trustee of the Academy and a retired IAS officer.

He says the Trust was started by A. Padmanabhan, former chief secretary, Government of Tamil Nadu, to uplift students from the SC/ST communities.

“We do not have our own faculty but experts from other institutes offers classes here,” says Chellappan.

The Academy runs with the goodwill of many donors including the library that has over 2000 books donated by an engineer. The Academy continues to guide students for various examinations conducted by TNPSC.

The Academy is located at 24th Street, Kaveri Colony, Anna Nagar East.

Any first-generation undergraduate is welcome to Thadam Training Academy at BB Road, Vysarpadi.

The centre is run by non-profit Gold Heart Foundation to help women get into government jobs through TNPSC and other competitive examinations.

Open from 10 a.m. to 8.30 p.m., the facility has a library stocked with a range of books. Besides, computers with access to eBooks and WiFi are among the other features on tap.

The Academy is starting a fresh batch soon and invites interested women with a SSLC certificate to avail the free coaching.
