

Here's a simple, step-by-step breakdown of the article "Govt consulting exporters ahead of next round of India-US BTA talks".

What's happening?

India and the United States are preparing for another round of negotiations on a Bilateral Trade Agreement (BTA).

Timeline

- August 7: A 25% tariff imposed by the US on Indian goods will come into effect.
 - August 25: A US delegation will visit India for the next round of trade talks.
-

Key Issues

1. Tariff Trouble:

- US President Trump's administration is imposing 25% import duties on certain Indian exports.
- This puts Indian exporters at a disadvantage compared to other countries not facing such high tariffs.

2. Government's Response:

- The Indian government is consulting with exporters to understand what they need from the trade deal.
- Exporters are giving inputs and suggestions to help India during the talks.

3. Exporters' Demands:

- They want the trade agreement to turn the current tariff disadvantage into an advantage.
 - They also want clarity on the penalty risk for buying oil and weapons from Russia—the US has been vague about potential sanctions.
-

India's Objectives in the Talks

- Reduce or remove tariffs that harm Indian exports.
- Ensure predictability for trade, especially around US sanctions or penalties.
- Negotiate terms that support Indian businesses and exports.

Summary

- India is preparing for a critical round of trade talks with the US.
- High US tariffs are a major concern for Indian exporters.
- India is gathering feedback from these exporters to strengthen its negotiating position.
- The goal is to make the trade deal fairer and more predictable for Indian businesses.

Let me know if you'd like a visual summary or infographic too.